

Why Solent?

100,000
100

100,000
100

100,000
100

100,000
100 (2023)

BSc (Hons) Business Management

1. The first part of the course is a foundation year, which provides a broad-based introduction to business and management. This includes modules in business law, business communication, business economics, business mathematics, business statistics, business computing, business ethics, business psychology, business sociology, business geography, business history, business philosophy, business art and design, business music, business drama, business film, business television, business radio, business journalism, business publishing, business advertising, business public relations, business marketing, business sales, business buying, business negotiation, business conflict resolution, business dispute resolution, business arbitration, business mediation, business conciliation, business negotiation, business conflict resolution, business dispute resolution, business arbitration, business mediation, business conciliation.

2. The second part of the course is a three-year honours programme, which provides a more in-depth study of business and management. This includes modules in business law, business communication, business economics, business mathematics, business statistics, business computing, business ethics, business psychology, business sociology, business geography, business history, business philosophy, business art and design, business music, business drama, business film, business television, business radio, business journalism, business publishing, business advertising, business public relations, business marketing, business sales, business buying, business negotiation, business conflict resolution, business dispute resolution, business arbitration, business mediation, business conciliation.

3. The third part of the course is a final year project, which allows students to apply their knowledge and skills to a real-world business problem. This project is supervised by a member of staff and is assessed by a written report and a presentation.

BSc (Hons) Computing

1. The first part of the course is a foundation year, which provides a broad-based introduction to computing and information technology. This includes modules in business law, business communication, business economics, business mathematics, business statistics, business computing, business ethics, business psychology, business sociology, business geography, business history, business philosophy, business art and design, business music, business drama, business film, business television, business radio, business journalism, business publishing, business advertising, business public relations, business marketing, business sales, business buying, business negotiation, business conflict resolution, business dispute resolution, business arbitration, business mediation, business conciliation.

Foundation Year

1. The first part of the course is a foundation year, which provides a broad-based introduction to business and management. This includes modules in business law, business communication, business economics, business mathematics, business statistics, business computing, business ethics, business psychology, business sociology, business geography, business history, business philosophy, business art and design, business music, business drama, business film, business television, business radio, business journalism, business publishing, business advertising, business public relations, business marketing, business sales, business buying, business negotiation, business conflict resolution, business dispute resolution, business arbitration, business mediation, business conciliation.

2. The second part of the course is a three-year honours programme, which provides a more in-depth study of business and management. This includes modules in business law, business communication, business economics, business mathematics, business statistics, business computing, business ethics, business psychology, business sociology, business geography, business history, business philosophy, business art and design, business music, business drama, business film, business television, business radio, business journalism, business publishing, business advertising, business public relations, business marketing, business sales, business buying, business negotiation, business conflict resolution, business dispute resolution, business arbitration, business mediation, business conciliation.

3. The third part of the course is a final year project, which allows students to apply their knowledge and skills to a real-world business problem. This project is supervised by a member of staff and is assessed by a written report and a presentation.

4. For more information, please visit qa.solent.ac.uk/courses

